Jen Greely	7 Caccamo Lane	With this cursory overview of the demographic analysis, it seems that this most recent report is lacking in a full analysis. Several variables that could be helpful to understanding current trends are omitted. As Jeannie highlighted already, the lack of inclusion of privately-run Pre-K or Kindergarten programs is a serious oversight, as these kids progress through time, this omission is compounded year over year. And, similar to last year, an over-reliance on local birth trends to predict incoming Kindergarteners, simplifies and ignores any type of pandemic modeling that goes beyond a simple reliance on a 3-year recent historical average. Additionally, deeper analysis of demographics related to recent move-ins is necessary to understanding what young children might be in the wings, expecting to enter Kindergarten in the next few years. I urge the BOE and administrators to take a deeper look independently at the trends before them.
